Understanding Tramadol

Tramadol is a centrally acting analgesic commonly prescribed for the treatment of moderate to moderately severe pain. Classified as an opioid analgesic, it works by binding to opioid receptors in the brain and spinal cord, altering the perception of pain. Tramadol also inhibits the reuptake of norepinephrine and serotonin, contributing to its analgesic effect.

Common brand names include Ultram, ConZip, Ryzolt, and Ultracet (a combination of Tramadol and acetaminophen).

Indications for Tramadol include:
